Strategies

1. Identify any barriers in implementing the plan (i.e. data collection, data tracking, funding, infrastructure, etc.)

Getting the training into agencies has been a barrier due to various administrative processes, as well as time constraints on the number of training hours these agencies are allotted. Additionally, the season in which the trainings started (spring) was not conducive to public school and preschool calendars, many of which had already used allotted training hours earlier in their school year. The pre- and post-test, as well as the trauma informed care assessment also presented barriers. Many agencies that received the training were not existing FCFC members, and thus were not provided with the pre-test. This precluded their information from being included in a post-test, however there are plans to have more trainings with FCFC members so relevant data can be elicited which can then be compared to pre-test data previously obtained. Additionally, a decision has been made to provide the pre-test and post-test to any agency receiving the trauma informed care training beginning in SFY18.

2. Identify any successes/how implementing this plan has worked to strengthen the council and county collaboration.

Many more agencies across Lake County are aware of Family Children First Council and its mission of ensuring children and families are linked with quality services through service coordination, advocacy, and collaboration with community partners. Additionally, the activities outlined in the shared plan are LCFCFC's second major initiative focusing on trauma, as LCFCFC previously hosted a training by Dr. Anda, one of the authors of the ACE study, which remains one of the country's largest public health studies to this day. In this fashion, LCFCFC is becoming known throughout the community as a leader in providing relevant, usable information in accordance with trends in mental health research and other best practice methods. This can help draw new agencies and individuals to become involved with LCFCFC over time, and can also help forge new partnerships and relationships with diverse agencies throughout the community to improve advocacy and service coordination.

Further, the process of creating the trauma-informed training and recruiting agencies interested in the training has strengthened community collaborations. This is largely due to communication and cooperation, as well as overall community support, required to make any training program successful. Several agencies became interested in the training, and word about it spread from several different agencies and from full council meetings. This word of mouth, grassroots style approach served to secure more buy-in for the training, which is more likely to lead to more fidelity with regard to implementing trauma informed principles. Because positive relationships were forged in this process, LCFCFC will likely become more of a resource for agencies and families within the community.

Report on Indicator Data (Provide data for each outcome indicator listed on the Shared Plan. List only ONE outcome per page. This page can be duplicated as needed).

Shared Outcome: Trauma Informed Care

Shared Measurement Indicator(s):	Baseline Data	Current Year Data	Direction of Change (+, -, NC)
Pre and post-test analysis regarding Trauma Informed Care (TIC)	Data: 16 Year of Data: 2016	Data: 0 Year of Data: 2017	NC
Number of agencies completing the Trauma Informed Care assessment*	Data: 0 Year of Data: 2016	Data: 0 Year of Data: 2017	NC
Number of trainings offered, participants attending and sites trained	Data: 0 Year of Data: 2016	Data: 94 people were trained on 7 different occasions Year of Data: 2017	+

3. List the data source(s) for the indicator(s):

- Lake County Family and Children First Council Needs/Shared Priorities Survey
- Lake County Family and Children First Council Trauma Informed Care Survey
- Ohio Department of Mental Health Agency Self-Assessment for Trauma Informed Care

- Graduate Level Student Intern “TIC education tracker”

4. Identify any key findings (explanation of data findings; FCFC actions taken in response to key findings, etc.):

A total of 94 people were trained on 7 different occasions. Educational settings, such as preschools and public schools, comprised the focus of all outreach. 2 trainings were completed for preschool educators (a total of 28 people), 1 training was conducted in a college setting (27 people), 1 training was completed for church representatives (12 people), and the remaining trainings (3) were completed in public school settings (27).

For 2018, it is anticipated that Lake Geauga United Headstart have all of their employees trained, and that many trainings are conducted at Wickliffe City Schools in order to assist those two organizations with becoming more trauma competent. More preschool settings will be approached, and post-test information will be obtained from full council.

Based on previous presentations, community members provided the greatest amount of feedback about the definition of trauma and its subjectivity, as well as impacts. Because of this, actual trauma informed care principles might be a bit overwhelming for people to take in during a one hour training session. Follow up should be considered and more information should be provided to sites trained in different formats in order to secure a transfer of learning.

*The number of agencies completing the Ohio Department of Mental Health's Agency Self-Assessment for Trauma Informed Care will be removed from the Lake County Shared Plan as a measurement indicator beginning in SFY18. Based on the length of this assessment and its clinical nature, it does not appear to be an appropriate measurement tool for the daycare and educational settings receiving the trauma informed care presentation. A pre and post-test will be offered to these agencies for measurement purposes. Additionally, agencies will continue to receive information on the Ohio Department of Mental Health's Agency Self-Assessment for Trauma Informed Care in the event that agencies choose to complete this assessment independently of Lake County Family and Children First Council.
