TRANSITION TO INDEPENDENCE PROCESS (TIP)

Patrice Fetzer, LISW-S
Certified National TIP Model Consultant

TIP Informed Wraparound

- Utilizes components of the Transition to Independence Process to inform the Wraparound process
- Youth and young adult driven/family supported versus family driven and youth guided
- Empowerment and support focus
- Supports youth and young adults in their own futures planning process and movement toward greater self-sufficiency
- Developmentally and culturally appropriate services and supports for youth and young adults in transition
- Utilizes life domains specific to young adulthood

Transition Domains

TIP Informed Wraparound Considerations

- Adapt engagement strategies to match development stage of young adult
- Youth and young adult defines their “family” and team members, which may change over time
- Family members may need support and new skills during the “emerging adulthood” developmental phase
- Co-development of a safety-net of supports
- Young adults drive their own safety and prevention plans
